

KEIFER-BOYNTON.

The Correspondent Having Asked for Investigation by the House,

Ex-Speaker Kefauver Tells the Story—men His Version of the Story—
What Boynton Says ... A Square Issue of Veracity.

WASHINGTON CITY, Jan. 30.—There was an exciting scene in the house when Hopkins, of Pennsylvania, offered a resolution provid-

Kofter asked the floor and proceeded to tell the members of his troubles with Gov. Boynton and had read a letter addressed to that gentleman in which he writes, among other things: "Your conduct has placed you so far outside the pale of a gentleman as to make it a degradation to notice you," repeatedly characterized Boynton as "a scoundrel" and "a dishonest fellow." The last summer Boynton directed a letter and published it to the country purporting to have been written by me to the secretary of the treasury, and charging an avowed interest by Boynton to Kofter in the same claim.

He then claimed to have the details of the alleged conversation between Boynton and myself on February 27 last. He said Boynton to asked the recognition of Mr. Dummel for his motion to suspend the rules to pass Mr. GERRARD's bill, putting in a disclaimer of any personal interest in it, and then asked the yeas and nays, and just to this point the speaker made neither verbal nor written answer. The next day or the day after Boynton came and sought a private interview with the speaker. To this the speaker replied, "I think you are right. To this the ex-speaker replied, "that he did not know, good be hoped." Boynton replied, "I think you are a fool." "I did not know what he meant," said Gerrard. "He said that I had done, but that there was plenty to be made yet if this bill could be got through." Boynton then explained to Gerrard the bill, and said it proposed to divide the land into lots, and that the proceeds of the land division would be divided by a covert way provided for the ascertainment of the value of the land and the proceeds of the New York Mining Law of 1894. He said that the value of the land would be divided by $1.25, and this would be the measure of the land scrip to be issued, which would be for many millions of acres, and that the scrip would be valuable.

"But $30 an hour," said Kiefer.

"What was the interview about," said Kolfer?

"It was for good reasons, my connection with Boynton ceased, and I have never since recognized or paid to him." He went on to state that on the last night of the last session, Boynton and one W. B. H. were present at the house, and they had a discussion against him for opening the reporters' gallery to the public, when there was a hundred men here now who knew he was opposed to doing so.

He then read the testimony in the Pacific coast and called attention to what Shaw had received $15,000 for lobbying that Shuman through. He wanted the resolution opposed, wide enough to investigate not only Boynton, but others, especially Shaw. It was surprising that it was so easy for congress men who would come in like supping to could make a vice, corrupt proposition to Speaker.

A letter from Boynton to Lister Carleton was offered to be included in section two made, and offered to be read, in objection to the charge made against him by Kolfer, and says he cannot doubt that the house will inquire whether correspondents who enjoy privileges from the house are guilty of lobbying even to the extent of trying to corrupt a speaker.

The resolution was amended to cover the case of any other correspondent, and the investigation devolved upon the judiciary subcommittee.

The Record in Congress.

WASHINGTON CITY, Jan. 30.—Influence was by a vote of 63 to 29, Sherman's resolution was passed. The committee on the investigation of the recent election troubles in Virginia and Mississippi. Voted reported formally a bill to repeal the timber-culture law. Cannon introduced a bill to establish the territory of Oklahoma as a reserved reservation. The inquiry as to the effect of the stock dividend of the Western Union Telegraph company, its consolidation with competing lines, or its regulation for the transmission of messages, was referred to the committee on commerce. The bill to amend the act relating to the Indians at the Crow reservation was adopted, the amount being raised to $100,000. House bills were passed approving $1,750,000 to pay rebate on tobacco

The house of representatives passed a resolution directed by Hopkins, of Pennsylvania, for the appointment of a special committee of five members to investigate the charges made by ex-Speaker Keifer that H. V. Borah, senator, a correspondent, attempted in a corrupt manner to influence the election of Keifer to the speakership of the house. Keifer caused to be read a letter which he had written to the confederator. Bills were introduced to prevent the adulteration of sugar, to bridge the Mississippi at St. Paul, to prevent the immigration of whites and negroes in the District of Columbia, to increase the stability of the paper currency, and to purchase additional ground for the erection of a public building at Gastevton.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Jan. 26.—The Federal Communications Commission today issued an order instructing the committee on post offices and mail routes to inquire whether the cost of telegraphic correspondence between the several states and territories of the United States and with foreign countries has been injuriously affected by large stock dividends made by the companies owning the telegraph lines, and to make recommendations between different telegraph companies, by working contracts with cable or other companies, by the leasing or connecting of existing lines, or by other means; also whether the means of telegraphic communication are being directly or through the Gulf and Stock Telegraph company, or any other telegraph or association, have prescribed rules or regulations for the transmission of press news, or made differential striking the free and independent use of the telegraph by the press. Two resolutions authorizing the purchase of a telegraph and papers, employing a stenographer and a reporter by bill or otherwise and in print.

What Boynton Says.

WASHINGTON CITY, Jan. 30.—Gen. Boynton, who was in the reporters' gallery as heard Representative Keifer's speech, said, in an interview, that on the responsibility of his own opinion he believed that Keifer had not so much as assumed under oath the competence of having said anything, never his own words, but that he never had any control of conversation with Mr. Keifer on the merits of the McCarran bill, except as stated in his published letter, and that the details of a conversation with him as given by Mr. Keifer were a colossal falsehood. Boynton added further that he desired his denial to be considered so broad as to cover every point of Mr. Keifer's speech and letter, which suggests corrupt action.

Important Land Sale.

WASHINGTON CITY, Jan. 30.—An important sale was filled in the equity court against the United States Grant of the land of the Yellowstone National Park, when the following were present: Hon. C. G. Gould, John B. Algeo, William W. McCormick, George W. Rigg, John A. J. Creswell, James Donald Cameron, the unknown heirs of Elias H. Caldwell, deceased, and eleven other persons.
